

Speculation On Ike's 'Big Decision' Grows Intensified

THOMASVILLE, Ga. (AP)—Five months ago today President Eisenhower suffered a heart attack and the world started guessing whether he would run for reelection. The speculation still goes on.

It still goes on, intensified, as the President starts the last full day of his south Georgia vacation at the plantation home of Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey. He arrived here Feb. 15 and plans to fly back to Washington Saturday.

Next week he may end all the guessing with an announcement of his plans. But there still is nothing definite about the timing.

There has been a big change in the trend of the speculation since Eisenhower was stricken Sept. 24 in Denver.

Then and during the seven weeks he was hospitalized the predictions that he would run again were few. His political supporters were close to desperation.

But there was a gradual change in the outlook for a second term bid. Now after five months most of the guessing seems to be that the President will announce for reelection.

The predictions that way got a big boost 10 days ago when Eisenhower's doctors gave him a new physical examination and reported a good recovery. They said, for that matter, he appeared to be fit for "another 5 to 10 years" in a job such as the presidency.

On Jan. 9 Eisenhower resumed what he termed "the full duty of the presidency." Then 10 days ago he came down here to the south Georgia piney woods area for a vacation and presumably to reach a final decision.

If he has reached it, the world hasn't been let in on the secret. The White House won't say. It does say Eisenhower has not passed any word back to his close associates in Washington, not even to his No. 1 aide Sherman Adams.

Eisenhower indicated before he left Washington he would announce his plans around March 1. He said he probably would do it at a news conference. His next one is tentatively set for Wednesday, Feb. 29.

Here in Thomasville, the President has put his physical stamina to a real test. A week ago today he played his first round of golf, nine holes, since his heart attack. Since then he has played two 18-hole rounds.

One of those came yesterday and he followed it up with two hours of hunting. He and Humphrey each brought down a wild turkey.

His personal physician, Maj. Gen. Howard M. Snyder, says he has come through it all in fine shape.

In fact, Snyder said today the chief executive "might be safer" from a health standpoint in serving a second term than he was before his heart attack.

A reporter asked the doctor whether he feels Eisenhower will run for reelection.

"I have no impression about that," Snyder replied.

"All he can do," Snyder said, "is trust in God if he goes ahead."

Then Snyder said "it might be safer for him than it was before."

Snyder did not elaborate, but he apparently meant that a man who has had a heart attack is much more inclined to watch his health. Also, particularly in Eisenhower's case, the doctors have intensified their watch over his health.

ALABAMA NEGROES DEFY ORDERS BY GRAND JURY

Tournament Title At Stake Tonight

Pickaway Clashes With Ashville; Scioto Meets Jackson In Prelim

By LOU FABRO
Herald Staff Writer

Upset-minded Pickaway and unbeaten Ashville are poised for the championship game of the 1956 county basketball tournament, to be played tonight in the county fairgrounds coliseum.

The mighty Ashville Broncos hope to: (1) win their third consecutive tournament title; (2) stretch their victory string to 18 games; and (3) gain a seeded position in the district tournament, drawings for which will be held this Sunday.

The Pickaway Pirates, playing the role of "Cinderella" team, hope to: (1) win their first tournament championship since 1953 and a third consecutive one for their coach, Bill Barnetson, who was basketball mentor at Ashville the last two years; (2) be the first team to beat the mighty Broncos this year; and (3) avenge a 78-58 defeat to Ashville during the season.

In the first game of the evening, beginning at 7:30, a rugged battle is shaping up as Scioto will battle it out with Jackson for the tourney's consolation award. The winner of this tilt will go to district play with Pickaway and Ashville.

JACKSON'S Wildcats, with a 12-8 record, are seeking revenge for a 72-62 loss imposed by Scioto during the season. Scioto, with a 15-6 mark, will be fighting equally as hard to win a berth in the district tournament.

Both teams were seeded in the county tournament. Jackson was stopped by Pickaway last Monday, 58-51 and Scioto was dropped by Ashville, 74-54, the same evening.

Commenting on the chances of his Pirate team, a squad which battled into the finals with an unimpressive 8-10 record, Coach Barnetson said:

"We'll show up all right and we'll give them a battle. We have some height which should help us. Our team is a different one from the one which started playing at the beginning of the season."

The Pirate coach was cautious in predicting a victory and stated that "they'll be tough to beat."

ASHVILLE'S Coach Russ Gregg pointed out that Pickaway "has a tall team and will be tough to beat."

Ohioan Gets Post

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP)—Paul R. Mico of Dover, Ohio, has been appointed state director of health education for Wyoming.

However," he added, "we have better bench strength which may be a big factor as to the outcome of the game."

County Superintendent of Schools George McDowell declared "I have a definite feeling that the final games will be good ones." He added, "I wasn't too much surprised at Pickaway's showing because it always is a good tournament team."

Trophies will be awarded to the top three teams tonight and the All-County team, selected by the 11 county coaches, will be announced.

Immigrant Boy, 7, Dies Praising U.S.

COLUMBUS (AP)—Seven-year-old Richard P. Zielski is proud of his new country.

Born in a Russian-operated concentration camp in Poland, the boy would tell of his love for the United States in four languages to anyone who would listen. But most of all, he wrote it in English.

He was struck and killed by a hit-skip motorist last night on U. S. 23, south of nearby Shadeville near where he lived. The boy had just alighted from a bus with his mother. He was an only child.

Torn from his hand by the impact was the last thing he'd ever written in his newest language—a first grade school exercise, printed neatly, saying:

"I love my flag,

"With colors true,

"Long may it wave,

"Red, White and Blue."

State highway patrolmen apprehended the driver of the car which struck Richard, and identified him as Samuel Handler, 64, of Columbus. He was charged with leaving the scene of an accident.

Ohio Highways May Get Slick

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio Turnpike has scattered slippery spots in the west portion, the highway department says.

The balance of the state's highways were normal, but a forecast of rain and sleet may change these conditions later today.

Scattered light rain over the state was reported, with freezing rain or sleet from Findlay south-east through Zanesville expected.

Walk-To-Work Pilgrimage On In Montgomery

City Bus 'Jim Crow' Rule Protested Anew; Arrests Continuing

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Pledged to a massive campaign of firm but peaceful resistance, Montgomery Negroes started a 24-hour walk-to-work pilgrimage today in renewed protest against segregation on city buses.

The 100 or so among them who were indicted by a grand jury on antiboycott charges were called into court to face arraignment today. A date will be fixed for their trials, perhaps starting the week of March 19.

Eighty-nine defendants have been arrested and other arrests are still to come. The total number indicted was first announced as 115, but some duplication of names was discovered as the warrants were checked.

Shouts of "amen" greeted a minister's suggestion at a mass prayer meeting last night that "not a race-loving Negro" in this historic cradle of the Confederacy would use any form of transportation throughout today.

IT WAS THE Negroes' way of demonstrating that they can walk if necessary to carry on their 11-week-old boycott against Montgomery City Lines buses and the "Jim Crow" segregation required by city and state law.

Nimitz Ponders War Senselessness

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP)—Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, who observed his 71st birthday today, has pondered what a war with weapons of mass destruction may be like.

"I hope," he said, "the world soon can find a leadership that will be able to sway the people to the idea that all war is wrong. War is a senseless sort of activity."

Nimitz took command of the heavily crippled U.S. Pacific Fleet after the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor Dec. 7, 1941. He directed the drive across the Pacific that ended in the surrender ceremony in Tokyo Bay aboard his battleship Missouri.

Fugitive Commie Plans Surrender

One-Time Top American Red Says He Will Give Self Up On Monday

NEW YORK (AP)—A letter purporting to be from Gilbert Green, a top Communist who has been a fugitive for five years, said today he will surrender Monday.

The letter did not reveal Green's whereabouts. It was received by major news services today and was postmarked at 10:30 o'clock last night in New York City. It was signed "Gil Green."

Green, Illinois chairman of the party, was one of the 11 Communist leaders convicted in the memorable nine-month trial in 1949 on charges of conspiracy to teach and advocate violent overthrow of the government.

He failed to appear for sentencing July 2, 1951.

The letter said Green had decided to give himself up because "the main trend of the nation is no longer toward a new world war and McCarthyism. A new trend is evident."

Green, sentenced to three years, was one of four defendants who jumped bail of $20,000.

HENRY WINSTON, the party's organizational secretary, also is still at large.

The other two, Gus Hall, Ohio chairman, and Robert G. Thompson, were captured—Hall in Mexico in 1951 and Thompson in California in 1953.

The typewritten letter said: "On Monday, Feb. 27 at 12 noon I shall cease being a fugitive from justice and instead become its prisoner. At that time, I shall appear at Foley Square (location of the federal courthouse) . . .

"New political winds are blowing. These give hope that the curtain of fear behind which democratic liberties were undermined and destroyed will be lifted."

"They also give reason for confidence that the day is not far off when the political rights of Communists will be restored and men and women of differing political persuasions will be able, once again, to debate their views openly and freely in the public arena."

Hall and Thompson, after their captures, were charged with contempt of court for jumping bail. Thompson was sentenced to an additional four years and Hall to an additional three years on this charge.

Thompson, because he had a commendable war record, had received a three-year sentence originally, compared with five years for Hall and all the others.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation here said it had heard of the letter, but knew nothing beyond that.

School Clerk Admits Theft Of $29,100

CLEVELAND (AP)—A 34-year-old clerk, tearful and "truly sorry," sat in a jail cell today accused of embezzling $29,100 in Fairview Park school funds by faking checks during the last two years.

While Robert H. Montgomery was held under $15,000 bond for a mayor's court hearing next Friday, doubting officials checked his story he spent the money on gambling and poor investments.

"We are not certain that is the truth," said Solicitor James A. Dunson.

Dunson said Montgomery admitted taking the funds but denied any were used to purchase the $30,000 home he bought for his wife and their two daughters last year, a home with a swimming pool.

Montgomery, who earned $6,300 a year as a clerk-treasurer for the school board and $15 a week at a part-time job with a neighborhood weekly shopping paper, also purchased recently a foreign-made automobile valued at $8,000 and a 23-foot boat for $4,500. The boat is up for sale, and last week Montgomery sold the car and turned over $4,500 to school authorities.

A total of 17 checks, ranging from $450 to $3,125, were made out by Montgomery to fictitious companies and persons and then endorsed and cashed by the clerk, Dunson said. The shortage was discovered by a state examiner who was called in to make a routine check of funds after the school board decided a week ago to fire Montgomery for inefficiency.

California GOPsters In Accord On Poll

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—California's Republican Big Three presented an unusual harmony front today in teaming behind a state delegation pledged to President Eisenhower.

Gov. Goodwin Knight, giving up plans to control the state, held out the political olive branch.

Vice President Nixon and Sen. Knowland, possible rivals for the presidential nomination, quickly accepted it.

That peace is found on the assumption that Eisenhower will run. There was no mention that the partnership would continue if the President does not run.

This kind of Doodle can really get things moving at a party. I know because I tried it and everyone in the room started moving toward me. But that's the chance you take when you're pioneering a revolutionary new idea like Doodles. You live dangerously and never know where your next bruise is coming from. You'll meet plenty of reactionary Trouble Makers who will pass critical remarks such as "Put 'em up!" or "Take this!" But just remember they laughed at other pioneers such as Robert Fulton and Thomas Edison. Why did they laugh? Because these men were Doodlers. So keep Doodling and who knows, maybe someday you too will invent the Steamboat or the Electric Light!

Workers Set For All-Out Heart Drive

Big Sunday Efforts Will Climax 1956 Fund Campaign

Volunteer workers in three local communities today awaited the signal to launch the all-out effort of the 1956 Pickaway County Heart Fund Drive—the house-to-house solicitations next Sunday afternoon.

The Heart Sunday campaign will be carried out in Circleville, Ashville and Williamsport. It is expected to last for only about one hour, starting at 1 p. m.

In Circleville, the city's air raid siren will blow, and the Foreman chimes in the courthouse tower will be played, as last-minute reminders for the public.

Volunteer forces working for the campaign have been divided into sections to speed up the solicitation work. Drive leaders explained that the time selected was agreed upon, after a study, to pick the day and hour when it would be most convenient for the general public.

ALSO IN line with this policy will be an arrangement whereby residents may send in their contributions in prepared envelopes if they do not happen to be home when the solicitors call. All contributions, regardless of the amount, will be appreciated, drive spokesmen emphasized.

Chairman of the county-wide drive this year is Dr. H. H. Swope.

Dulles Set Today To Face His Critics

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles confronts some of his most outspoken critics today at a public hearing which Sen. George (D-Ga.) said he hopes will get bipartisanship back on the right track.

Dulles was invited before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee this afternoon for questioning about administration policy toward the tension-ridden Middle East and on ways to counter new Russian economic and diplomatic moves.

Defeat Predicted For Rigid Support

Vermont Senator Enters Debate Over Next National Farm Setup

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Aiken (R-Vt.) said today that "prospects for beating rigid mandatory price supports are good."

As the Senate moved into its third day of debate on a controversial election-year farm bill, Aiken prepared to speak in support of the administration's lower and flexible price support system installed two years ago.

Aiken is senior Republican member of the Senate Agriculture Committee, but is opposing that group's stand on price supports. The committee, by an 8-7 vote, called for scrapping the flexible supports and returning to the higher rigid levels for basic crops which have been in operation most of the time since World War II.

Most of the speeches in the Senate thus far have supported the committee's stand.

SECRETARY of Agriculture Benson referred to the high supports last night as "the unsound farm programs we inherited," and said they are to blame for farmers' present troubles. He said they encouraged overproduction and the accumulation of surpluses.

Benson and Sen. Thomas E. Martin (R-Iowa) appeared on the CBS See It Now television show to reply to what Benson called a "distorted impression of the farm situation" on the TV program Jan. 26. Benson had taken issue particularly with a film showing a farm sale in Iowa.

The secretary conceded that many farm families are in trouble because of high farm costs and low farm prices.

But he said that agriculture is neither "on the rocks" nor "depression-bound." Anyone who says it is, he added, does "not tell the truth."

While the Senate debated the farm bill, its finance committee was expected to give quick approval to a House-passed measure to refund an estimated $60 million a year in federal gas taxes to farmers.

Ohio Bell Shows Lush '55 Profit

CLEVELAND (AP)—Ohio Bell Telephone Co. today reported net income of $30,754,000 for 1955, and Cleveland Law Director Ralph Locher immediately branded the amount as "proof that the rate increase granted the utility last year was unjustified."

"The very thing we warned against has happened. By virtue of the unnecessary rate increase, the telephone customers in Ohio are subsidizing the consumers in other states," Locher declared.

An increase of $7,600,000 a year in Ohio Bell rates went into effect Jan. 1, 1955. Several Ohio cities battled the rate increase all the way to the Ohio Supreme Court.

Cop Has Easy Way To Grab Bookies

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Deputy Sheriff George McMillan has an easy way to catch bookmakers.

McMillan stationed himself outside the suspect's back door. Then he had a fellow officer telephone the suspect and tell him:

"Beat it, the cops are coming."

In 30 seconds flat, McMillan reported, the bookie bolted out the back door "right into my arms and he had all the evidence with him."

Safe from the hazards of city streets and open roads, the subjects were transformed into bona fide drunk drivers in what was called "the first major and professional effort in the United States to get some documentary expression of what a given blood-alcohol concentration will do to a person's driving."

Each participant was fed varying doses of 100-proof bourbon and placed behind the wheel of

Net Income For Companies Shows Increase

1955 Proven Good Year For American Business Firms

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Nine out of ten corporations are turning in better profit reports today than a year ago. Their increase in net income after taxes in 1955 averages about one-third higher than 1954. For many of them the prospects of continuing on the upgrade are good for the first half of 1956.

So far, 616 corporations — of all sizes, and scattered through most major industries — have reported on their 1955 operations. The number will swell rapidly in coming days.

But take the 616 as representative of what is to come, and you find only 58 of them reporting a decline in earnings.

Even in the best of boom times, however, there are laggards. Eight of the 616 operated at a net loss last year. In 1954 there were 17 of the 616 making that sad admission.

The 616 show combined net profits after taxes of $10,010,849,536. In 1954 the same 616 had total earnings of $7,595,025,350. The increase is $2,415,824,186, or 31.8 per cent.

The gain for the U. S. treasury is roughly the same, since corporations put aside for federal income taxes about the same amount they report as net profits.

Leading the parade in percentage gains over the previous year are those industries who suffered most from the 1954 recession or those tied in with the big boom in the auto industry.

The big gainers include: Meat packers, steel and iron, rail equipment, airlines, textiles and apparel, autos and trucks, coal, mining and metalworking.

Doing better than the average were: Farm equipment, glass, paint, auto suppliers, railroads, chemicals drugs.

Industrials as a whole did better than the utilities and rails. The 406 industrial companies averaged 37.2 per cent higher than the previous year. The railroads averaged 35.4 per cent better—striking gains by some roads were offset by five carriers showing decreased earnings due to floods or other special causes. The regulated utilities followed their usual quiet course for an average increase of 12.9 per cent.

Profit prospects in the first three months of 1956 appear good for most corporations. Some industries predict that the entire first half of the year will show fatter profits than 1955.

But the picture can change quickly. Corporate managers tell you that in boom years profits rise at a steeper percentage rate than sales. But with a business downturn profits dry up faster than sales.

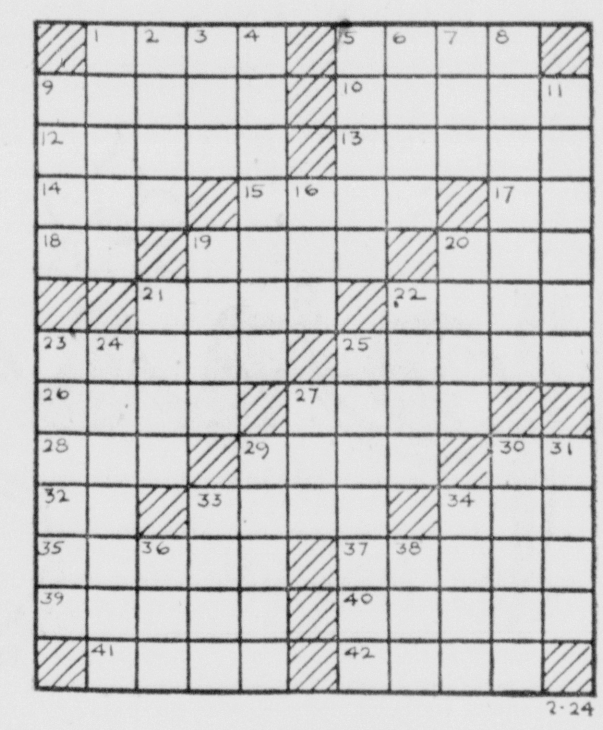

And if there's one thing certain about the American economy it's this: It keeps changing.

The most important vegetable oils of commerce are said to be coconut, peanut, flax, cottonseed, soybean, mustard and olive.

Snub Of Math And Sciences Reducing Engineer Ranks

The main reason the nation is facing a critical shortage of engineers is the growing among the younger students to sidestep higher mathematics and the sciences as "hard subjects."

That is the opinion held by Pickaway County Engineer Henry T. McCrady and the heads of the two local school systems—County Superintendent George McDowell and George Hartman, head of Circleville schools. Their comments on the subject were in connection with the National Engineers' Week, currently being observed over most of the country.

McCrady, one of three engineers in the County belonging to the Southern Ohio Chapter of the Ohio Society of Professional Engineers, also pointed out that the country "is getting more technical and that industries and governmental agencies need more engineers than before." This situation has become especially true since World War II.

McCrady noted that the field of engineering is attractive since there are so many openings and because engineers' starting salaries are good. He stressed the fact that although engineering is "tough," the studies are "no rougher than medicine, law or some of the other professions."

sciences, and that there is a shortage of teachers in these subjects. But more engineers, he said, may be on the way.

He noted that for the past couple years, graduating classes have been small in comparison to those which will begin to graduate next year. The Circleville school head said this year's graduating class at CHS will be the last of these "small classes."

HARTMAN SAID he believes this changing picture is on a national scale. With bigger graduating classes, he explained, more will almost surely enter the engineering fields and help alleviate the present critical shortage.

At Circleville, Hartman said, the attractiveness of engineering as a career is emphasized in the school's guidance program, which begins in the seventh grade. Moreover, the value of mathematics for a general educational background, is stressed.

Another means which help relieve the current shortage is for the mass media to encourage students to enter the engineering and technical fields by pointing out the attractiveness of these as a career.

William C. Newberg, president of a large national corporation, has declared that "one industrial company out of three in the country is suffering from an acute shortage of engineers, a situation that has reached critical national proportions."

Quoting from published findings, Newberg asserted that only approximately half of the high schools in this country offer courses preparatory to an engineering education. He coupled this with a reported sharp drop—by as much as 56 percent—in the number of college graduates from 1950 to 1954 who could qualify to teach high school subjects.

NATIONAL ENGINEERS Week, is sponsored by the National Society of Professional Engineers each year in conjunction with the birthday observance of George Washington, who, before becoming the first president of the United States, worked as an engineer.

In addition to McCrady, two other local engineers belong to the Southern Ohio chapter. They are: Charles Smith of Circleville and Frank Baum of Duvall. There are 86 members in this group from Adams, Brown, Clinton, Fayette, Highland, Madison, Pickaway, Pike, and Ross Counties.

Forrest W. Swartz of Chillicothe is the president. Earl Hall of Wilmington is the vice president, and Stuart E. Withers is the secretary-treasurer.

Sales Taxes Due Even On Bad Debts

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio Board of Tax Appeals has ruled that a merchant must take the sales tax loss when merchandise for which tax stamps are given isn't paid for.

The board decided the question yesterday in a case involving Budd and Co., Columbus, a jewelry firm. The store claimed the state tax department should refund it $2,429 paid for sales tax stamps given out with merchandise that wasn't paid for or only partly paid for between 1951 and 1954.

State Tax Commissioner Stanley J. Bowers said the law doesn't

Treasury Seen Loser If Tax Stamps Ended

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—State Sen.

C. Stanley Mechem, Senate majority leader, says in his opinion the state "would lose, instead of gain" revenue if it did away with pre-paid sales tax stamps.

Mechem, chairman of a legislative committee studying the Sales Tax Act and possible changes in it, made the statement at a committee meeting Thursday. The group is part of the Ohio Legislative Service Commission, fact-finding arm of the General Assembly.

The Senator's views were supported by George Hammond, a spokesman for the Ohio Council of Retail Merchants, who said, "We are convinced that the Ohio treasury would lose, not gain, if tax stamps are eliminated."

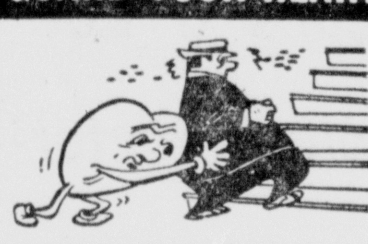

Hammond said an increase in number of tax auditors and expense of more tax returns would offset any present direct costs of the stamp plan if it were abandoned.

Opponents of tax stamps say the state would save 5.8 million dollars—the cost of redeeming, printing, distributing and paying out commissions on stamps in the 1954-55 fiscal year.

John Skipton, legislative service commission director, told the committee that the policy of redeeming stamps at three per cent of their face value is, in effect, a subsidy to religious and charitable groups.

About 40 per cent of state sales tax refunds last year went to religious groups. It has been proposed to the Legislature to replace the present sales tax system with

Ohio Readies New Campaign To Plant Vast Number Trees

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—You're going to hear a lot about trees during the next few months, no matter where you live in Ohio.

More than 100 organizations taking part in the 1956 "Plant Ohio" program today have at hand literature on which to base local campaigns aimed at getting 25 million new trees planted this year in the Buckeye State.

The campaign material is from the desk of William Finley, chairman of the Governor's Plant Ohio Executive Committee. Finley is a forestry expert at Battelle Memorial Institute here, large private research organization.

State headquarters of the organizations will pass the literature on to local units charged with getting campaigns in their cities and towns started quickly.

County agricultural extension agents will be county chairmen of the campaign, coordinating efforts of veterans organizations, trade associations, farm organizations, community service clubs, garden clubs, colleges and institutions, industries, schools, governmental units, soil conservation districts and conservation clubs.

"The planting season will be in full swing in a few weeks," Finley wrote in a letter accompanying the literature. "The time is now. Planting stock of every type should be ordered without delay."

The state wants trees planted both on an individual and wholesale basis. Persons wanting to plant large number of trees not to be used for shade or ornamental purposes can buy them from state nurseries at Marietta, Zanesville and Green Springs in Sandusky County.

The minimum order is 500 trees. Application blanks are available at district offices of the Department of Natural Resources, county agricultural agents offices, farm foresters offices, soil conservation service offices and at forest nurseries.

Gov. Frank J. Lausche has this to say about the "Plant Ohio" program, in a letter to all Ohio residents:

"It is difficult to conceive of any comparable project which will afford greater immediate personal enjoyment, and more lasting benefit to every segment of our society. Manifestly, the necessity for a continued program for the restoration of vegetative cover in Ohio is obvious and is everywhere apparent."

The "Plant Ohio" program began in 1952 during a meeting in the governor's office to make Arbor Day plans.

"Why can't we talk less and do something that will be a lasting benefit long after we are gone?" the governor asked. "Let's plant millions of trees in lawns, parks, around factories and in new forests."

That year 15,300,000 new trees were planted before the supply ran out. The figure rose to 23,805,400 in 1954, dropped 3 million last year.

O. A. Alderman, chief of the state forestry division, says the production of trees now seems adequate. The main problem is to persuade disinterested landowners to plant trees and help those who can't afford the expense, he believes.

If all the land in Ohio that needs trees got them, the full capacity of state nurseries would be used for 33 years. He estimates the need at 500 million trees for one-half million acres of land in Ohio that should be planted.

"Plant Ohio" literature outlines plans for church, industrial and community beautification. It also tells how schools or communities can develop their own forests.

Finley lists benefits of community beautification as better living, better business, better health and recreation, higher property values and greater civic pride.

Ohio Continues Hunt For Top Psychiatrist

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio still has not been able to find a top flight psychiatrist, who also is an excellent administrator, who would be willing to leave his present work for a state job.

Dr. John D. Porterfield, director of the Division of Mental Hygiene and Correction, still is looking for a man qualified to take over the $22,500-a-year post of commissioner of the Division of Mental Hygiene.

The position has been open for seven months, since the resignation of Dr. Lowell Dillon. Dr. Leonard P. Ristine, one of the two assistant directors, is acting commissioner.

State Sen. Ray E. Hildebrand, Toledo Republican, said he wonders why a new commissioner has not been named and claims "we will continue to just drift along with our mental health program until a qualified man is appointed to the post."

Dr. Porterfield said the advisory council of the mental health division drew up the qualifications for the job "and they are high."

"Both the council and I are anxious to fill the job, but we don't think we will be doing the state a service by hasty hiring," Dr. Porterfield said.

Letters have been sent to about 50 top-level possibilities. Discussions are continuing. To date, a man acceptable to both the council and Dr. Porterfield, and who would be available for the job, has not been found.

Jury Hearing Of Beatings Given Boy, 8

CLEVELAND (AP)—A jury of six men and six women looked at scars on the bare back of 8-year-old Michael Simko Thursday and heard his mother testify the marks resulted from a belt-buckle beating and cigarette burns inflicted by his father in a drunken rage.

In a British accent, Mrs. Lilly Simko, 45, described how her husband, Frank, 40, gave her the first in a series of beatings only 10 days after she arrived here from England in 1946. Frank L. Simko, 40, married her while he was a paratrooper in Europe.

Last August, Mrs. Simko said, Michael ran away after his father put a burning cigarette to his back. Then last Dec. 13, she continued, her husband whipped the boy with a belt buckle and kicked him, ignoring Michael's cries of "Daddy, I'm dying. Don't daddy."

To the pleas for mercy, her husband's reply as quoted by Mrs. Simko, was: "That's what I want. I want to kill you today."

Simko is charged with assault to kill.

The couple's 6-year-old daughter, Christine, also was in court. She, too, was beaten by her father, but less severely than Michael, Mrs. Simko testified.

"Mary Hawthorth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: For 14 years I've given my grandchild the care and training her mother might have given her, but didn't. Jane was about a year old when her father died and her mother (my daughter) didn't want to keep her.

Once when Jane was about five, her mother decided to give her another try. I let her go much to my regret, and in three months she was sent back by plane, in bad shape with asthma. Later she told me she'd been terrified that her grandpa and I wouldn't meet her at the airport, which made my heart ache.

Ever since then she has been subtly aloof towards us, whereas she used to be really affectionate. As a child she did well in school, forged ahead and was consumingly interested in books. She was in fact a little shy and preferred reading to playing with others. This aloofness has grown with the years.

Girl Not Rebellious

Jane was always difficult to train, but in the last two or three years she has become unreachable. She isn't deliberately disobedient; it's just that what I say doesn't seem to penetrate. She is gloomy and despondent, wears an absent look, doesn't seem to care for anybody, or about anything. She lacks a sense of responsibility; her chores are never done neatly; the fairly good grades she gets at school aren't a result of conscientious study. She does no homework, at least not at home.

Her grandfather and she are constantly at each other's throats. He decided long ago she would never be any good, but I am still hoping. He hasn't the easiest disposition, but if she would show him more respect, they would get along better, I think. At times she is terribly touchy, cross and nervous and it is wearing me down.

Please shed light on the problem. Am I raising an incurable misanthrope? Or is there any hope I can get Jane interested in helping herself?

R. G.

DEAR R. G.: What you are disclosing, though too blind to see it, is that Jane has become progressively ill, emotionally ill, while under your supervision.

As I get the picture, the blow that really struck her down—from which she hasn't recovered since—was being sent off to her unstable mother at the age of 5, into circumstances of hit-or-miss care. And then being shipped back to you and her hostile grandpa, in a panic state of anxiety—as indicated by her asthmatic condition and her fear of being unclaimed at the airport.

By that time she was so demoralized, her self-regard so damaged, her expectations of others so distorted, by a series of rejection experiences (due to no fault of hers), that she simply stopped being outgoing. Back on your hands, she no longer dared hope for, ask for, or express affection. She simply withdrew into herself, in a mood of total defeat, where people are concerned. Indeed she probably shrank from such fond interest as was shown in her—construing it to be a mirage or hypocrisy not to be pursued.

Doctor's Slant Cited

Last November 8, the U. S. News & World Report carried an exclusive interview with Dr. Winifred Overholser, former president of the American Psychiatric Association, on "What you should know about mental illness." Dr. Overholser discussed among other things the development of emotional illness in children. In part he says:

"The notable (symptom) to the observer is the withdrawal of the patient's attention. He crawls into his shell, as it were. When a child loses interest in the outside world, it is a pretty (serious) sign, and it certainly calls for psychiatric attention."

In the town through which you write there is a Mental Hygiene Service, staffed to treat the psychiatric ills of adults and children in the surrounding country. My advice to you, and your browbeaten husband, is to get emergency guidance from this center, in providing Jane the health-care she urgently needs.

Earl Eisenhower Sees Second Term

Evans Agency Now Being Run By Earl Leist

A "hometown boy" has returned to Circleville. Earl Leist has taken over the former Johnny Evans automobile agency on Watt St. He will sell Nash cars.

Leist was born and raised on a farm south of here near the Hitler-Ludwig Cemetery. He moved to Lancaster in the 1920's and has been in the automobile business since the 1930's.

A grand opening has been planned for March 1 at the Watt St. showroom. Leist said he hoped to have all the redecorating finished by then—if not, then the official opening will be moved back to March 10.

Leist said he planned no change in personnel. He noted that Emmet Hinton would continue to operate the service garage, assisted by Al Jackson. Leist added that a complete parts department was being installed.

THE AUTO agency here will be the first "branch" effort for Leist. He owns one place in Lancaster. He said he had bright hopes for his Circleville venture.

He takes over from Evans, who has been on the local automobile scene for many years. Evans reportedly has moved to Springfield but will apparently remain in the automobile business.

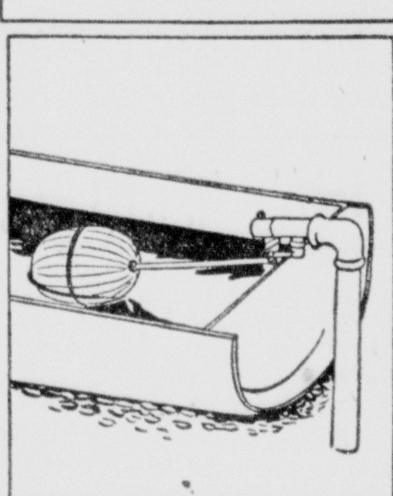

Leist is married to the former Lucille Burt of Lancaster. They have four sons and one daughter.

"I intend to spend a lot of time here," he said. "It sure will feel good seeing a lot of people I haven't met for a long time. In just the short time I've been in town I've seen a lot of people I used to know. I recognize them but I just can't seem to remember their names anymore."

"Leisty", as he is usually called, began his auto career with used cars. In 1945, he began a Nash new car agency in Lancaster.

World Today

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles, quoted by Life magazine as saying it is an art to get to the brink of war without falling in, is less artistic about hot water. He's in it again.

And the Democrats are sloshing around after him, just as mad as they were the last time, and the time before that.

Dulles, freshly back from a Bahamas vacation, was called today before the Senate's Foreign Relations Committee to explain what's going on.

The Democrats, but not Democrats alone, have expressed concern about the direction—or lack of it—in American foreign policy. There have been complaints that policy has been drifting since President Eisenhower's heart attack last September.

In this same period the Communists, dumping Stalin's sullen stay-at-home policy, have been moving confidently to try to win Asia and the Middle East with smiles and promises.

It was in mid-January that Life magazine, after a special interview with Dulles, carried a story extravagantly praising his conduct of foreign affairs.

He was quoted as claiming the Eisenhower administration three times had saved the country from war and as philosophizing on the art of getting to the brink. Many Democrats exploded.

Today marks the first chance they've had to question him about that story since it appeared, for on Feb. 12 he flew to the Bahamas for a rest. While he was fishing another explosion set the Democrats off.

This was the disclosure the United States was shipping 18 light tanks to Saudi Arabia although Israel had been pleading for months, without success, for U.S. arms. The Israelis said they needed arms for defense against the Arabs.

Then the tank deal got even more tangled when the White House, which didn't seem to know in advance any more about the shipment than Congress, ordered it stopped for a while. This angered the Arabs.

When two days later the administration lifted the embargo, the Israelis were angered. And so were the Democrats, who complained they were told so little by Dulles, although he had pleaded for bipartisanship, that they felt like illegitimate children.

There have been various explanations by Washington newsmen who sought the answer to this almost incredible mixup, but no word from Dulles. He was in the Bahamas.

When he returned from his vacation this week he said the first he had heard about the tank shipment was when he arrived back in this country. This Saudi Arabian deal was the immediate reason for his call to testify today.

This isn't the first time American foreign policy got fouled up publicly while Dulles was off fishing. It happened before when the

DOUBTS ABOUT TITO

MARSHAL TITO, the Yugoslav communist who has been given millions in handouts by Washington, continues to slant his utterances alternately toward the East and the West and is now the subject of earnest appraisal because of his military outlays.

One set of figures shows that, while average European expenditures for defense range from 17 to 33 per cent of government budgets, Tito is allocating 80 per cent of Yugoslavian revenues for armaments. This is a great deal higher percentage than the United States allocates in propping up the whole free world.

What worries Washington is the possibility that Tito might line up with Russia in a war crisis, thus neutralizing the Balkan wing and opening the door for a Soviet thrust straight west.

Tito is an opportunist as well as a communist. If he thinks it will be to his advantage to line up with Moscow, he will do so. But if the Yugoslav dictator is wise, he will ponder the fate of Mussolini. Da Beega Moosa couldn't restrain his cupidity when Hitler's aggressive success began and became under study to the power-mad German. Mussolini was strung up by the heels by his own people.

It will be necessary to keep a sharp eye on Tito because he is a communist. Communism and the double cross are as alike as peas in a pod.

ACCENT ON YOUTH

IN LOOKING over help wanted ads, perhaps 90 per cent of them mention a maximum age limit of 35, which may occasionally be extended to 40. Possibly this is a result of the "Accent on Youth" movement which seems to have made wide gains in the last few years.

Most persons are for youth, having belonged to that age group at one time; if they do not do so now, but the nation cannot afford to throw all of the collective experience and ability of any certain age group into the discard, nor can the economy afford the loss of the buying power of such a group.

The answer to this dilemma is up to private enterprise. There is social responsibility involved which business must assume for its own benefit, extending to employees the same loyalty that is expected in return. Possibly a Society for the Preservation of Positions for People Past their Prime might help.

MOSCOW REFORMS

MOSCOW, LONG a city of night owls, has been ordered by official edict to shut up and go to sleep. Premier Stalin was perhaps as responsible as anyone for keeping the town jumping until all hours.

The wee hours of the morning found him in his Kremlin office, busily signing death warrants, ordering mass executions and otherwise tending to the details of his job. All of Moscow's bureaucracy stood in attendance to the master while he was at his desk. Because of his work habits and the

These Days

Many years ago, one of my editors complained that in one week, I had mentioned Russia 11 times. (I do not have the letter here, but that is my memory—maybe he said 12 or 13 times.) Of course, today, if you look at the news as it splatters in from all the world, Russia, Russian satellites, neutralists, etc., etc. compose the bulk of it except when Princess Margaret of England is rumored about.

Actually, there is too much Russia in our lives. It must do something to the gall bladder if not the liver. Maybe that is why Grace Kelly's betrothal to Grimaldi seems so important; at any rate, it is a relief, almost an escape from the Russians.

I wonder if Monaco officially is on our side, on Khrushchev's side, or neutral. It does not belong to any of the great international bodies that are preparing to evade war and therefore may have no opinions on the subject.

Certainly, Grace Kelly will make it as American as Hollywood, if that is American, which I understand it is becoming. In any event, it is much pleasanter to talk about Grimaldi than it is about Khrushchev whose seven-hour speech I shall one day read out of sheer duty to you, gentle reader.

Ike's picture, playing golf, did me a world of good and I stopped thinking about the Russians. I do not play golf, so I do not know how much exertion is involved, but if he can play golf, I can walk Joe when I get out of here, and it stands to reason that there is more sense walking an intelligent dog than hitting a little white ball that cannot answer back even if it wanted to.

But I still cannot figure out what the picture showing Ike hitting this small ball proves. Each one has to have his own view of the matter. To Khrushchev it may mean that he might some day wangle an invitation to come to Washington to make a speech against Princess Margaret. He could say about her that she has not ended colonialism in Bermuda which is a wonderful place for Englishmen to go to who do not want to pay income taxes. Some of Khrushchev's speeches make that much sense.

But here I am going back to the Russians when I actually sat down to snub them, not to mention them at all. I shall therefore talk about candidates. All the Republican aspirants, except Bill Knowland, are now trying to give the impression that they never aspired at all, that they got their names and pictures in the newspapers by accident, that none of them had press agents or managers, and now, after the Case fiasco, no one will have campaign funds anymore but will borrow for their campaign expenses from their wives. The Republicans all have alibis now that Ike can play golf.

The Democrats are not so fortunate. They have to have a candidate, if they are to remain a party and no matter how hard Mr. Stevenson tries, he is not making the grade because it is now clear that he has to run against Ike and that is not so pleasant, as those of us who supported Bob Taft discovered.

One Of Seven Sisters Nasty

By HAL BOYLE

GEORGETOWN, Colo. (AP)—On a wintry night two years ago one of "The Seven Sisters" struck Leroy Buckley with a mighty white fist of death, but he escaped alive.

By doing so the 28-year-old Korean veteran has become something of a living legend in this old mining town near famous Loveland Pass, high in the towering Rocky Mountains.

The "Seven Sisters" are seven perilous snowslide areas along the winding road through the pass.

Few persons caught in a major avalanche survive. Leroy is the second member of his family to accomplish the feat.

In 1915 Raymond Buckley, Leroy's uncle, and two other men were caught in an avalanche while inspecting a mine site. The uncle saved himself by clinging to the limb of a tree that withstood the flooding snow. His companions perished.

Leroy and his father, John, own a garage here. Over the years they have rescued hundreds of motorists stranded on the wintry heights.

At dusk on Nov. 24, 1953, Leroy was returning after towing a stranded car over the pass. The Seven Sisters seemed serene in a luminous peace. Then sister No. 6 reached for him without warning.

"I saw a sudden white fluff cloud before me," Leroy recalled. "And then I couldn't see anything. The glass crashed around me, the front of the cab crumpled."

"Snow filled the cab, choking me. How did I feel? There wasn't time to be afraid. I just gripped the wheel and held on. I wasn't even sure what was happening."

In the vast maelstrom of snow, rocks, and splintered trees the light 1½-ton tow truck was as helpless as a peanut in a hurricane. It sailed through the air, turning end over end, and landed upright 200 feet below the roadway then skidded another 100 feet before coming to a halt.

Buckley blindly pawed clear of the imprisoning snow that had kept him from being thrown out of the cab or banged to death in side the cab. The truck was nothing but wreckage. The radiator had been smashed in, the wheels and fenders ripped away.

A medal of St. Christopher, the patron saint of travelers had been torn loose from Leroy's throat. Feeling that St. Christopher had intervened to save his son, Leroy's father decided some months later the medal should be retrieved.

They searched and searched but could not find it.

"I thought perhaps if I prayed it would help," said the elder Buckley, who is devout. "So I got to my knees, and as I finished my first 'Hail Mary,' Leroy reached into the snow and said, 'Here it is, dad.'"

The father, stirred emotionally by his memories, looked affectionately at his son.

"Whenever he drives by the Seven Sisters now," he said quietly, "he says a silent prayer. Someone saw him up there on the mountain that night and helped him."

DIET AND HEALTH

Drink Milk Every Day And Store It Properly

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

WHAT'S one of your best food buys? That's an easy one to answer. It's milk—and more milk.

No other food gives you so much nutritional value at such a low cost. Economy-minded homemakers realize that no other single food is so important in the family's daily menu.

Especially Important

Milk, of course, is especially important for growing children. A quart a day will help build good teeth, strong bones, firm muscles.

But just because you are an adult is no reason to omit milk from your diet. At least a pint a day is a "must" for everyone.

Expectant mothers and those already nursing babies should have a quart per day. You do not have to obtain your daily quota by drinking all of it, although I can't imagine why you wouldn't want to drink several glasses a day.

Creamed Dishes

Some of it can be used with cereals or in creamed vegetables, cream soups, puddings and other cooked dishes. Ice cream and cheese are milk products and can be eaten several times a week.

Accustomed as most of you housewives are to handling milk, I think I still might be able to give you a few tips about protecting it right in your own home.

For one thing, do not let milk stand on the porch in the bottle. If it is in a glass container, light destroys some of the vitamin B-2 or riboflavin content.

Keep it in the refrigerator when not in use.

When storing milk in the refrigerator, keep it in the colder part—below 50 degrees.

It is probably a good idea to keep condensed and dried milk in the refrigerator, too. I think you will find they keep longer this way.

Make sure that odorous foods such as onions, fish, cabbage, melons and the like are stored in a distant section of the refrigerator.

One more thing. Do not pour leftover milk back into the bottle or carton. Use it for cooking. It does not cost much, but medical bills do.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

P. J. C.: Could exercise be harmful for one suffering from hardening of the arteries?

Answer: Exercise in moderation probably would not be harmful for one suffering from hardening of the arteries. It would depend entirely upon the condition of the heart and the amount of hardening that has occurred.

Your physician, after careful examination, will be able to tell you the exact amount of exercise you ought to take.

CHAPTER THIRTY-SEVEN

ALAN hurried to get back to the hospital to keep an appointment which he had made with Fred Blake. With Fern's operation on the schedule for tomorrow, he must get the husband's release. He would lay things on the line for the man, if necessary.

Fred was to come at five; Alan was "home" by four-thirty, and he thought he could catch up on any number of little tasks. He must check on the anesthetist's coming from St. Louis, read over the tissue report on a burn case—Eventually he considered the notes which Laura had written upon his memo pad. One was a call from Linda. He glanced at his wrist; his free time was now down to twenty-three minutes.

He sighed, and reached for the phone, then turned his head at a knock on his door. "Come!" he said loudly. It would be Blake.

But it was not. It was Linda herself, glowing and beautiful, her eyes starred with tears as she told him about Silas.

"Oh, no!" he moaned. He turned toward the window, his dark face convulsed in a swift spasm of grief and protest. "They wouldn't let me go!" he cried. "It could have been me—not him!"

She touched his arm. "I don't think—this war—I don't think it's a question of one man in place of another, Alan. Of one man being a hero, and another not. Silas was the man who happened to be in the certain place—doing the certain thing—to be killed. Perhaps his is the easier thing—and yours the harder."

His arm about her shoulders drew him to her side. "Did you speak wisely to Margaret?" he asked gently.

"I tried." She told him haltingly of the things she had found to say to Margaret. "I don't suppose she heard much of what I said." She told of sending the children for Jasper, and of his coming.

"This must have hit Father hard," mourned Alan.

"It did. But—he's like a tree, Alan. Strong—and upright. I—I was thinking—" But she could not go on. Tears welled into her eyes, poured down her cheeks, and he poured her into his embrace, his own eyes wet. It was comforting to weep there against his rough tweed shoulder, to feel his strength and warmth, to weep for herself, and for Margaret—for Silas' fine young life drained out upon the sands of Africa.

After a short time—"I had an appointment with Blake," murmured Alan. "If he's heard this, he won't come. And it doesn't make any difference now. I won't hurt Margaret more than she's been hurt. I simply can't."

Linda stood back to stare at him. "Oh, Alan!" she breathed. "You're not—you don't mean Fern?"

Wearily his hand swept back over his head. "Yes. I had planned it for tomorrow, but—now—"

She caught at his arm. "Listen to me, Alan," she said tensely. "You must go on with that. Operate, if that is what you have decided you should do. You have to do what you think is right, for your own sake. For your own sake!"

But he made no promise. He would go to Margaret. He helped Linda into her fleece coat, and they went out through the office. Laura told him Captain Blake had sent word he'd be delayed.

Alan told her the news of Silas. "I'm going to my sister."

"Yes, Doctor, of course. We're all sorry."

He nodded, started down the hall then turned back. "I'll write my night orders later," he said in a strange, deadened voice.

Laura and Linda exchanged concerned glances. Alan was taking this very hard.

They went to the cottage, and found Ma'am and Jasper there. The little place was over-crowded. "Let's go up to the house," and give Alan a little time with Margaret."

Margaret was sitting up on the couch now; the twins were eating their supper in the kitchen; they could be heard chattering busily. When the elder Thorntons had gone, Alan went to sit beside Margaret. He asked if she had sent word to Fred.

"No. I hadn't a chance."

"I had an appointment with him; he was delayed. I—Sis, I've decided that I won't operate on his wife."

She looked up quickly. "Is she worse?"

"Oh, no. There's no change. It's just that now—well, you've been hurt enough." His shoulders were bowed, his face lined; he looked defeated, discouraged.

Margaret almost glared at him. "Do you think it's going to help me any to worry about you?" she demanded.

Alan raised his head. "How do you mean?"

"Why, you know what I mean! Just because I let myself fall in love with a man I knew wasn't free to marry me—that's no reason, Alan Thornton, for you to go against your own sense of what is the right thing to do for a patient. Is it, Linda?"

Linda had brought them each a cup of hot tea. Now she shook her head. "I told him the same thing."

"Why, of course," said Margaret briskly. "If you had planned to operate, you must go on with it."

Alan stared at them incredulously. He shook his head briskly, as if to clear it. Then he sighed and tasted his tea; chains had fallen from his limbs, a weight had dropped from his shoulders. "Women!" he said darkly.

Local DAR Chapter Holds George Washington Tea

100 Attend Annual Festive Occasion

A total of 100 members and guests were in attendance when Pickaway Plains Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, met in the Presbyterian Church, for its annual George Washington Tea and Guest Day.

The meeting was opened in ritualistic form by the regent, Miss Marie Hamilton, assisted by the chaplain, Mrs. Christian Schwarz. The pledge of allegiance to the flag was led by Mrs. Ben Nothstine. Mrs. James Moffitt led in the singing of two verses of the national anthem, accompanied by Mrs. Kermit Dountz.

A letter of thanks from Mrs. Clifford Histed, state chairman of honor roll, was read by the secretary, Mrs. Forest Croman. She also read letters of thanks from the superintendents of the schools, Tammasie and Kate Duncan, for boxes sent to them in January and from Francis Peters, volunteer trainer, of the Pickaway County Girl Scout Association for the flag codes.

Miss Hamilton gave a short resume about "Our Flag," and displayed a small flag, owned by Mrs. Florence Brown of Ashville, which had the 13 stars in its field. Miss Hamilton said: "Remember, the United States will never be any better than you help make it. 'Old Glory' will never be held any higher than you raise it. Liberty and freedom will never be any stronger than your support of it."

"It is said that George Washington probably had as much to do with the selection of the flag as anyone else, and tradition says the design was of his own drawing," declared the regent.

"You as a citizen, have a responsibility to keep 'Our Flag' flying, to help keep our freedom untarnished, and pass it on to the children and their children's children," she concluded.

The Award of Merit, annually bestowed on some outstanding member of the community by the Pickaway Chapter, was given this time to Mr. Robert G. Colville, who is well-known as a civic leader.

Five have given more time or contributed more to the success of the Circleville Pumpkin Show, than Colville, commonly known as "Mr. Pumpkin Show". He has served as treasurer of the Show for 28 years. He is largely responsible for building the event into a first class show. Mr. Colville is also an active member of the Presbyterian Church and has been county treasurer for many years.

The award of merit was accepted by Mr. Colville with thanks and appreciation.

A five minute talk on national defense was given by Miss Donna Mitchell. Miss Mitchell said, "Through the years national defense has been the theme of songs, which have had their birth in our country's wars." She also stated that it has influenced the folk music of our country to a high degree.

Miss Mitchell, accompanying herself on a 47-year-old Autoharp, sang three selections that were popular in the days of George Washington.

Mrs. Ralph Whitaker, vice president general, NSDAR of London, gave a short talk in behalf of the National Society.

A musical program was presented by Circleville High School's music groups. Mrs. Lawrence Johnson, program chairman, made the introductions. A mixed double-quartet, composed of:

Lois Wittich, Betty Leist, Elaine Woodward, Judy Hurst, Dick Hanks, Eddie Martin, Mike Hosler and William Purdin, accompanied by Ann Adkins, rendered several selections.

Eddie Martin sang a solo accompanied by Ann Adkins. J. O.

The Kappa Beta Class of the First Evangelical United Brethren Church held a dinner progressive party for its regular monthly meeting.

The first course of the dinner was enjoyed at the home of Miss Mary and Miss Olive Ward with an ice breaker as the opening entertainment.

The group journeyed to the home of Miss Leona, Miss Fern and Miss Virginia Wise for the salad course. From there members went to the home of Mrs. Delores Carley where the main course of the dinner was enjoyed.

The business meeting was held at the home of Miss Marjorie and Miss Marilyn Francis.

The program conducted as a TV production, was held in the home of Miss Lucille Kirkwood. The home was set up as a television studio with improvised cameras and microphones.

3 County Groups Learning Art Of Dress-Making

Through three county home economics extension groups, a number of homemakers are showing and learning that dress making can be a delightful as well as economical hobby.

Mrs. Leora Sayre, county demonstration agent, declared several factors must be considered to decide if home sewing pays enough to make it a continued habit. It has been found through farm and home development experience that from 40 to 50 cents per hour savings is possible through do-it-yourself sewing.

With all the devices to make home sewing easy, it's no wonder that an estimated 38 million women sew at home. Compilation of statistics reveal that these women use enough piece goods each year to drape the earth 15 times at the equator.

The cotton dress construction class for the southeast section of the county held its second work session at Pickaway Township School with Mrs. Wendell Lauderman serving as hostess-councilor.

Those present were: Mrs. W. C. Watson, Mrs. Noble Barr, Mrs. Dwight Moss, Mrs. Harry Lane, Mrs. Curtis Bower, Mrs. Clyde Karsner, Dolores Karsner, Mrs. Floy Brobst, Mrs. Russell Yapple, Mrs. Allen Woollever, Mrs. Ray Anderson, Mrs. C. P. Heiskell, Mrs. Frank Graves, Mrs. Kenneth Shepler, Mrs. William Defenbaugh, Mrs. Leora Sayre, and Mrs. Lauderman.

The next class for this group will be March 3, 10 a. m. to 3:30 p. m. in the Lutheran Church parish hall in Circleville. Homemakers are welcome to observe and or to participate in this project with a well-known fabric.

Teachings on Stewardship

JESUS INSTRUCTS US HOW TO USE OUR GIFTS, TALENTS AND ABILITIES

Scripture—Luke 16:1-31; 19:11-27.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
IN THIS LESSON Christ teaches us how we should use our God-given gifts, talents and abilities in an honorable manner, and our worldly possessions for the good of mankind, not only for ourselves.

Every normal person has some gift, talent and ability. Are we putting them to the best uses? Every teacher knows that some of her children are better equipped mentally for their studies than others, but some of the brightest are not always the best students. They don't apply themselves. It is those who are anxious to learn who make the most of their abilities.

So it is with older persons. Some work hard and efficiently all their lives; others loaf on the job, not giving the full service for which they are paid. In which category are we? There is much complaint in the modern world about the latter type.

The first parable Jesus told is rather puzzling. A certain stew-man had finished his princely repast so that he might have the leftovers for his food.

Jesus told that Lazarus died and was received into Abraham's bosom, and the rich man died also. He was in torment in hell, and, seeing Abraham with Lazarus, he pleaded that the former be allowed to get him some water to cool his tongue. Abraham told him that he had his good things in life and Lazarus had the evil things, so now their roles were reversed. Dives asked Abraham if his fathers and brothers might be warned so that they might avoid his fate, but Abraham told him that if they did not believe in Moses or the prophets they would not believe another messenger, even if he rose from the dead.

People in that day were looking for the kingdom of God to come immediately. Jesus told a story of a nobleman who went on a journey to a far country to accept a kingdom. Before he went he called his servants and gave

"FINEST IN FARM MACHINERY"

Pocket 44¢ every hour!

That's the sort of fuel savings you can make with an Oliver diesel, doing this kind of work. Here's how it figures:

Pulling four bottoms, a gasoline tractor will burn some four gallons an hour. The Oliver diesel, about two and a half. What's gas worth where you live? And diesel fuel? At average prices, the saving comes to 44¢ an hour. With you, it might be less, it might be more—a saving of two-thirds the fuel cost is not unusual.

Size? Name it! Oliver—and only Oliver—offers you dollar-saving diesel power in six wheel tractor sizes. And remember, your Oliver diesel requires no extra engine for starting. No special fuel. Just step on the starter and go to work.

So soon it will be discovered that the Democrats might listen, after all, to that astute master of the fine Italian hand, Carmine DeSapio, who seems to be set on rebuilding the Democratic Party so that it does not become a Socialist Party in 1960.

The real fight will come in 1960 as all the ambitious young men realize. He, Carmine, will have his hands full, shooting off the Americans for Democratic Action, the National Committee for an Effective Congress, the Fund for the Republic and other agencies designed to steal his party for the Socialists.

On that subject, I shall have to read Khrushchev's seven hour speech, because he seems to have a lot of unorthodox things to say about the Socialists, he not hating them as much as Lenin or Stalin did. Maybe that is how he intends to conquer the United States without war which is what he said he intends to do. So I shall have to read the whole seven-hour speech to find out if he really said it.

Swimmer Ann Curtis is the only female athlete ever to win the James E. Sullivan Memorial Trophy. She was awarded it for her 1944 performances.

Ernie Beck, star of the 1951-52 Penn team, still holds the Ivy Basketball League single game record. He made 45 points against Harvard on Feb. 6, 1952.

All Major College Scoring Records Nearing Collapse

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Four high-scoring basketball teams are menacing all three of the major college team shooting records as the 1955-56 season draws near the end.

NCAA service bureau statistics, including games of Feb. 18, indicate Morehead State of Kentucky is virtually certain to become the highest scoring major college team in history. George Washington is heading for a new mark in percentage of field goal accuracy and either Illinois or Southern Methodist could establish a new standard for free throw accuracy.

Morehead had average 97.4 points per game through Feb. 18. Needing only 141 in two remaining regular-season games to break Furman's record 95.3 average of last year. Morehead hit 99 in losing to Ohio U. Wednesday night.

The next three high scoring teams, Marshall (W. Va.) 93.1 average, Illinois, 92.3 and Memphis State all are headed for the post-season national collegiate tournament. Morehead doesn't have a tournament spot yet.

George Washington, which has led the nation in field goal percentages for three years, has a .503 average so far and aims to become the first team to score on more than half its attempts. George Washington also leads in rebound recovery percentage with a .603 mark.

Illinois took the free throw accuracy lead from SMU last week with a .758 percentage to the Mustangs' .735. The record of .756 was set by Wake Forest last year.

San Francisco still leads in team defense, allowing its opponents an average of 50.4 points a game in winning 20 straight. Niagara has committed only 13.1 personal fouls a game, the lowest figure, and Bowling Green (Ky.) 23.2, the highest.

Columbus Spring Barrow Show Set For Next Wednesday

Pickaway County farmers can obtain experienced advice and up-to-date literature on their farming problems at the County Extension Office located in the Post Office Building, S. Court St., Circleville. The office here is the link between district farmers and the College of Agriculture, Ohio State University.

Swine producers, meat packers, processors and others will view carcasses of top hogs in Ohio's 1956 Spring Barrow show next Wednesday afternoon at the Youth Center, Ohio state fairgrounds.

Between 25 and 30 carcasses will be on display, according to Herbert Barnes, Ohio State University extension specialist in animal science. They will represent the best of from 80 to 100 barrow show carcasses to be displayed that morning in the coolers of a Columbus packing firm. The carcasses will be from the kind of market hogs that are most practical for the farmer to produce and at the same time meet consumer preference for lean, meaty pork cuts.

These persons attending the luncheon and Carcass Day program at the fairgrounds will see both prize-winning carcasses and cuts. Carcass contest winners will receive awards as a special feature of the program. Winners of a barrow show judging contest also will be announced.

Speakers will include a representative of the American Meat Institute, Chicago, who will explain the industry's pork promotion campaign, and Dr. R. F. Wilson, animal science department, Ohio State University, who will present an annual report of the Ohio Swine Breeders and Feeders association. Dr. Wilson is secretary of the group.

The Carcass Day program is a follow-up feature of the Ohio Spring Barrow show, to be held Saturday at the Madison county fairgrounds in London. The event is sponsored by the Ohio Swine Breeders and Feeders association in cooperation with livestock market agencies, packers, feed manufacturers and livestock equipment companies.

Adding superphosphate to barnyard manure can pay off in two ways, reports the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee:

1. The superphosphate gives the manure a better plant nutrient balance.

2. It helps the manure hold nitrogen that might otherwise be lost.

"Manure is rather low in phosphate," the committee points out. "Agronomists estimate that a ton of manure without bedding can average about 10 pounds of nitrogen, 5 pounds of phosphate and 10 pounds of potash. By adding 25 pounds of superphosphate to each ton, you can increase the manure's phosphate content to 10 pounds per ton."

"It pays to take good care of the manure produced on your farm. Wisconsin agronomists estimate that the manure from a 20-cow dairy herd can be worth as much as $600 in plant food each year."

Agronomists recommend adding phosphate to the manure before it is spread in the field, according to the committee.

"One of the easiest ways," says the committee, "is to put superphosphate in the gutters of the stable or open-run barn at the rate of one pound per cow per day. Bedding is needed to hold the liquids. Straw, shavings, sawdust or other litter can be used."

"Another method is to place the superphosphate in the spreader as the manure goes onto the field. Agronomists advise adding anywhere from 25 to 50 pounds per load."

Ohio FFA public speaking contest will be held March 22 on the Ohio State University campus. The contest is one of the Youth Day activities of Farm and Home Week, scheduled for March 20, 21 and 22.

Approximately 15 district winners will compete for the state championship and a chance to enter the regional contest. Regional winners will vie for national honors at the FFA's national convention in Kansas City, Mo. next fall.

Preliminaries in Ohio's contest will be held in the Agricultural Laboratories building, beginning at 9 a. m. Finals are set for the afternoon in Plumb Hall.

The contest is a feature of Farm and Home Week program planned by the agricultural education department of Ohio State University.

The department also has arranged sessions for Young Farmer groups March 22 in the Agricultural Laboratories building. Willard Wolf, assistant professor, agricultural education, will moderate a panel on "Keeping the Young Farmer Group Active," starting at 1 p. m.

Dirt-Loader Finds $46,000 Cache

DOUGLAS, Ariz. — Fred Chrest, Pocatello, Idaho, thought he had found a good hiding place for $46,000 in government bonds—but along came Frank Melendez and his dirt loader.

Chrest, a retired railroad engineer vacationing here, said he was afraid his bonds would be stolen so he buried them in a road bank near here.

Melendez scooped up the bonds Thursday while operating his dirt loader.

State Slow In Getting Hunting Fees

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Examiners reported today that money from sale of hunting and fishing licenses was slow in coming to the state from agents and some courts that imposed fines for violations.

Reports to State Auditor James A. Rhodes covered hunting license transactions between September 1, 1953, and Aug. 31, 1954. Reports on fishing license transactions covered the period between March 1, 1953, and Feb. 28, 1954.

Examiners audited accounts of the division of wildlife in the department of natural resources. Department regulations require reports by the 10th of each month on sale of hunting and fishing permits. On Sept. 8, 1954, a total of $122,938 was due the license account, examiners said. The department spent a total of $3,337,342 during the year, the audit showed.

The balance of fines due the department from the courts which collected same are larger than they should be according to law," examiners added.

Rhodes commended activities of sportsmen's clubs whose agents and sub-agents account for 56 per cent of license sales during a year.

Ohio Takes Over 24-Room Mansion

COLUMBUS — Ohio today owns a new mansion to be the home of its governors.

Gov. Frank J. Lausche, who probably never will live a single day in it, signed a new acceptance agreement for a 24-room mansion in suburban Bexley.

The big house, built 32 years ago, was a gift from the Rev. Charles U. Harris of Chicago.

Lausche's final approval of the gift gave the State Department of Public Works the go-ahead to proceed with remodeling of the English tudor mansion, a job expected to take many months and entail a cost at least $50,000.

Contractor Held By Toledo Police

TOLEDO — Held under $25,000 bond for a hearing March 1 in municipal court is Kermit Gable, 25, a Youngstown contractor who refused to disclose his identity to police.

Gable is held on a suspicious person charge for using identification papers taken in burglaries Monday night at nearby Maumee to pass 10 checks totaling $1,200.

He was identified by his wife, Mary, and a friend, William Peters of Youngstown yesterday after having been held overnight on a "John Doe" booking.

Brown Offers 4-Point Plan For Colleges

WEST UNION, Ohio — Lt. Gov. John W. Brown, Republican candidate for the nomination for governor, declared at nearby Peebles last night that colleges in Ohio will become overcrowded if steps are not taken to correct the situation.

Brown spoke at a meeting of youth leaders. He said the overcrowding will result from the high birth rate and the increasing percentage of high school graduates seeking higher education.

To meet the problem, he proposed a four point program. It called for establishment of more junior colleges, new state colleges, branches of existing state schools in new locations and enlargement of present state universities other than Ohio State University.

On the latter point, Brown said the president of Ohio State has said that school should maintain "a conservative enrollment" in its undergraduate schools.

"We must not close the door to any Ohioan with the ability and the desire to seek higher education," Brown said.

Westinghouse Aides Test Idle Pay Law

COLUMBUS — Test applications for unemployment compensation were filed yesterday by two striking employees of the Westinghouse Electric Corp. They immediately were turned down, opening the way for court ruling.

The applications were filed with the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation by Joseph DeCarlo, 27, and Bernard Granger, 22, both of Columbus. They have been out of work since the Westinghouse strike began Oct. 17.

Their applications were turned down by Paul Whitmer, head of the application service section, on the basis of an Oct. 16 ruling that the dispute is not a lockout.
